living room Blue sofa, orange chair, green floor cushion: The '60s called and they dig this color mashup. (The furniture is from Design Within Reach, the cushion from World Market.) Walnut walls and the floor-to-ceiling window and glass door were a state-of-the-art setup, meant to integrate nature. The Heatleys had the fireplace redone in a glossy black brick-like style from Fireclay Tile. "We love to sit by the fires," says Julienne. "The sound and smell is always nice while sipping a glass of wine."

Remington found this sculpture of the Golden Gate Bridge by Curtis Jere on Chairish.
